REPUBLICANS COMPLETE ORGANIZATION OF THE SENATE UNMOLESTED; HY JOHNSON THERE AND MAKES NO OBJECTIONS

Washington, Dec. 1.—Senate regular Republicans proceeded with their organization unmolested in secret caucus today and unanimously chose all their candidates for the big jobs in the upper House of Congress.

Progressives changed their minds at the last moment and boycotted the meeting.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge was re-elected Republican floor leader. Senator Charles McNary was re-elected majority whip and Senator William C. Capper, Secretary of the majority caucus.

Lodge was announced to appoint a Committee on Committees and a Committee on Patronage and a Committee on Order of Business.

The Progressives at Arms and other clerical offices of the majority remained outside. No mention was made in the caucus of the peculiar situation resulting from the decision of Senator Canning of Iowa to retain the Presidency of the Senate and Chairmanship of the Interstate Commerce Committee.

Among the Progressives who presented themselves from the caucus were Senators Borah, Borahhart, Couzens, Frazier, Ladd, La Follette, Norbeck and Norris. Absentees who have not yet arrived at the capital include Senators Cull, Couzens, McLean, Stanford, Sterling and Norbeck.

Senator Brandagee, Connecticut, probably will retain his post as Chairman of the Committee on Patronage and Senators Lodge and Curtis as Chairman and Vice-Chairman of the Steering Committee.

Hiram Johnson, California, who recently announced his candidacy for President, was present but made no objection to the procedure.

Republican leaders were enthusiastic over the unanimity of opinion and smoothness with which the organization functioned.

Barking Police Dog Finds Abandoned Babe; Then Finds Little One's Mother

Newark, N. J., Dec. 1.—A police dog found an abandoned baby, one day old, in a lot by the Central Railroad tracks. He barked until his master came.

Ten minutes later a woman walking hurriedly by was observed by the same dog. He followed her, barking loudly, until his master, who had returned with a policeman, stopped and questioned the woman.

It was the baby's mother. She said she had abandoned the infant because she was out of work.

LEGION NIGHT AT DRIGGS THEATRE MONDAY EVENING

The much heralded picture of the American Legion parade at Reading was given a private showing to the local censors this morning and they unanimously passed the picture. It is interesting. Starting with the swearing in of the "V. P." force by the Mayor of Reading it carried thru until the end of the parade on the memorable Saturday when the Clearfield Expeditionary Force took Reading.

"Our Own" are given a liberal showing, both Legion Post and the Band. The film then shows the memorial services held in Reading in commemoration of the late President Harding. Following this comes some of the scenes shown at the return of the boys from the front in 1919. It will be well worth going to see in connection with the feature the local Post have arranged for, "Masters of Men" at the Driggs Theatre Monday evening.

Miss Bernice Pooler spent Wednesday evening in Philadelphia.

Margaret, Stanley and Betty Kyren are spending the week end in Mt. Union.

William George of Winburne and W. A. Spackman, of Lawrence township.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 1.—Allegheny County is in the grip of a crime wave, the monthly report of Coroner W. G. McGregg indicated today.

Fifteen persons were murdered and 33 killed in automobile accidents in November, the report showed.

Ten died from poison booze and 12 committed suicide.

Mr. Geo. Evans received word of the sudden death of his niece, Mrs. Ella Huston, of Cairnbrook, Somerset County on Wednesday, November 28th. The Misses Mildred, Ruth and Mary Evans left yesterday for the funeral which will be held Saturday at 2:30 p. m.

CLEARFIELD TAXIDERMY COMPANY IS MAKING A GREAT REPUTATION; TURN OUT A BIG LINE OF FINISHED SPECIMENS

Annual Output of Deer Heads Is Hundreds; Bears, Birds, Wild Cats and Freaks Without Number Are Sent In.

TAN HIDES BEAUTIFULLY

One of the fastest growing enterprises in this city and one which is doing much to spread the gospel of "Clearfield" far and wide, is the Clearfield Taxidermy Shop, managed by Sylvan K. Williams, of 605 Hannah street.

About six or seven years ago, Mr. Williams began his study of the art under a nationally known taxidermist in the middle west. Upon returning to this city he started in on a series of experiments and for two years worked at the art with such success that he was soon compelled to bring aid into the operation. Three years ago the Clearfield Taxidermy Shop was opened with Mr. Williams in charge as the licensed taxidermist and a force of a few men.

From a business which Mr. Williams handled himself in a single room up to a business which now employs ten men regularly and from eighteen to twenty during the rush season, the Clearfield Taxidermy Shop has made a remarkable growth in the short space of three years.

The fame of Mr. Williams' work has spread far beyond the confines of this commonwealth and during the past season he has mounted deer heads and preserved other game from hunters in Ohio, Virginia, West Virginia, New York and as far west as Detroit. The number of deer heads which have been mounted in this shop amounts to hundreds during a single season. One day last season the express company delivered to this bustling establishment 34 deer heads and four bears.

At the present time there are many specimens of birds going thru the process of preservation and the work is shown thru the plant, the other day and found in the cases not far from the windows of birds, several of which are of ducks and geese.

and many other birds which one needs a knowledge of "birdology" to describe.

Not only does this establishment mount animals and birds but it does an extensive tanning business. Hides of sheep, cows and calves come in for preservation and are turned out thru the process in just as short a time as is commensurate with good work.

The firm is also building a wonderful business in genuine buck skin gloves, hunters vests, moccasins and auto robes. Furs for personal wear are also made and repaired and there is an experienced workman in charge of this department who does nothing else but attend to this end of the business.

In conversation with Mr. Williams the other day, the Progress made something of the quality of the work turned out. "In only two cases," said Mr. Williams, "did we get complaint on the hundreds of deer heads we turned out last season. One came from a man who did not make his order clear and the other was of a very inconsequential nature. It is the plan of this place to give the utmost satisfaction and we endeavor to live up to our original plan of making this the best known taxidermy establishment in this state, not only from a quantity standpoint, but we are bending ourselves to assure every body of the best quality of work obtainable anywhere."

It will be remembered by those who attended the Clearfield County Fair that the Clearfield Taxidermy Shop had an exhibit that was surrounded by literally thousands of people during the four days of the fair and that expressions of commendation were heard on every side of the high quality of the work exhibited.

There is hardly a mail arrives in the busy office of the plant but what brings words of commendation from some recipient of a mounted specimen and this is one of the strictest of which by which one can judge the growing popularity of the business.

GOOD ROADS DEPEND ON INCREASING OF CO. ASSESSMENT

Road Enthusiasts Who Met Here This Week Declare in Favor of Increase in Assessments.

THE COOPER PLAN

The meeting of the Clearfield County Good Roads Association at the Court House on Tuesday, last, demonstrated that the thinking business men of the county are a unit in their belief that not only is Clearfield county entitled to many more miles of improved roads, but that the matter of increasing the assessment of taxes should be given immediate attention.

At present the total valuation of the county is but $24,000,000, which shows that despite the wonderful growth and development of the county there has been no appreciable increase in tax values.

It is high time something be started toward correcting our archaic system of tax assessments and the Good Roads Association took the needed step in the direction, when they adopted the following resolutions:

Want Assessments Increased
John C. Folsom of Clearfield offered the following:

"Resolved that the Clearfield County Good Roads Association urge upon the County Commissioners of Clearfield County the advisability of getting the assessed valuation of Clearfield County in such shape that sufficient money may be raised for the purpose of building the good roads system of Clearfield County and for providing for better school facilities, put and carried unanimously."

Urges Commissioners To Get Busy
Jacob Osborn moved, supported by J. C. Folsom that County Commissioners be asked to use their authority to bind the county for as much money as is necessary to meet the state aid money carried. Amended by Mr. Folsom on seconding to read "That the County Commissioners be urged to borrow money from time to time as it may seem to them necessary for the purpose of meeting the state propositions for building on secondary routes and for the joining in of links in Clearfield County between secondary routes or any other parts of the county which it may seem to them advisable to be built. Carried."

For Secondary Roads
A motion by A. H. Lutz of Houtzdale "That the Clearfield County Good Roads Association place itself on record in support of building the road from Ramey to Jansville on secondary route 276 and also building the road from the Swan Hotel in Houtzdale to Ramey." Amended by Mr. Folsom in seconding, as follows:

"That the officers of the Association urge upon the Highway Department to apply some of the state money on the route asked for and not now on state road plan." Carried.

West County Road System
Mr. Folsom offered the following:

"That the County Commissioners of Clearfield be urged to make arrangements in some manner so that centralized authority may be exercised over the roads in which county money has been spent; that is, that Clearfield County Commissioners take over the duty of maintaining the roads which have been constructed and in which Clearfield County money has been spent. Seconded and carried."

For Good of the Order
Remarks were made by Mr. D. H. Watts, G. W. Fox, and W. J. Iffert. Mr. Scamerville called the attention of the Convention to the system followed in Cooper Township whereby the township each year is improving its roads and receiving a fifty per cent refund from the state, thereby bettering their roads and actually reducing the road tax.

MARTIN FULLINGTON VERY ILL

Friends learned this morning with a feeling of regret that Martin Fullington suffered a severe paralytic stroke this morning. His condition is serious.

HIGHWAY PATROL WAS OPERATING ON "MOONSHINE TRAIL" EARLY THIS WEEK; COMMUNITY HOPES FOR A BETTERMENT

Philipsburg, Pa., Dec. 1.—It was reported two highway patrolmen on motorcycles were operating Tuesday night between this place and Hawk Run, and also along the piece of new highway which extends from Philipsburg to Allport. It is a fact that this particular piece of highway needs the patrol more than any other highway in Pennsylvania. Seven fatalities and numerous accidents have occurred on this road, most of them between the N. Y. C. station and Howe's store, at Morrisdale, a distance of a few hundred yards. On the stretch young people use the highway as a promenade, on walking from work the local factory employees, who walk to Hawk Run and nearby points, go along by furs, and despite the number of cars along the highway, will not move an inch or walk single file to let two cars pass.

This special route is also known as the "Moonshine Trail." Cars terminate at the intersection of the highway at Hawk Run—some go up over the hill to the old Naball blocks, while those that like the brand made at Hawk Run go the opposite direction. And still another crowd prefer to go a little farther up the highway to Staletown. And the stuff, named place.

Residents hereabouts are hoping that if the highway patrol does not put a stop to at least the liquor traffic, that the sheriff and his squad of Clearfield county men will raid the said section, so the people, residents of the particular places mentioned, can get a few nights of rest.

Following the raid and capture of a number of moonshiners in Hawk Run, some time ago, the business quieted down for a brief period, but the people who make the stuff up, parently came to the conclusion that the officers make only one such raid in a village, and how the stuff is bottled, and still another crowd prefer to go a little farther up the highway to Staletown. And the stuff, named place.

That Last Game

Weight and experience proved no barrier to the light, inexperienced Clearfield High eleven when they held the heavy, experienced Curwensville machine to a scoreless tie at Curwensville Tuesday. Both teams were well supported by large delegations, while many others from other places to witness the tussle between the two jinxed elevens. Late rains had made the field a sea of mud and the locals' open play campaign had to be discarded for the best possible method. Curwensville's line attack was found to be just right yet their plunging played no havoc with the locals who fought back every advance of the heavier upriver eleven.

Coach Black's machine fought as never before yet they were unable to go beyond the Clearfield 8-yard line, which was the high water mark of the contest for both elevens.

On the offense Curwensville's bright spots were Brunetti and Capt. Grande, who once added 25 yards for the longest run of the game. Brunetti's punting and running the Kelly and Decker featured the play of their good work.

The Reed machine, although not so brilliant in places, turned back advance after advance and kept the upriver eleven from gaining the much coveted Turkey Day honors. Mann, the local center, was the defensive star of the entire bunch, as his wonderful work still continued, stopping enemy backs for no gain and opening holes for the local back to gain thru repeatedly. Rafferty, playing his last grid game for Clearfield High, ended it with a wonderful game, his playing being not far behind that of Mann. Wilson's punting was another feature and his long spirals sent the enemy back repeatedly. Capt. Barnie stabbed the enemy line for gain after rain but could not get started around the terminals through the mud.

Ray LaPorta, who started at half back for the upriver team, was again injured, receiving a fractured collar bone when tackled by Barnie, making his second broken bone of the season.

Wright Period.
Brunetti kicked to the locals' 20-yard line and Mitchel returned to his 35-yard line. Barnie ripped thru left tackle for 5 yards. Morris failed at center. Barnie hit center for 3 yards. Barnie added 3 more thru center and first down. Mitcheltree 1 at left end. Wilson lost 7 yards in the mud. Wilson then punted to Curwensville's 30-yard line and Grande got back 9 yards. Grande added 8 more on a fake back. Brunetti made 3 yards at left end. Grande picked up 4 yards off tackle. Maurer got 2 yards at center. Curwensville penalized 5 yards for offsides. Grande got 2 yards on a short end run. Brunetti punted to the local's 15-yard line.

Mrs. Fred Conkle is spending some time with her daughter Mrs. E. G. Eldinger, in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Edna Hartsock, a student at Luck Haven Normal is visiting her parents.

BIG GAME SEASON OPENED TODAY AND WEATHER IS FINE

Horace Flegal Knocks Off First Buck To Be Reported; Got a Seven Pointer at Crystal.

ELK CAN BE SLAIN

Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 1.—(United Press)—The big game season in Pennsylvania starts today and lasts 15 days. There will, however, be only 13 hunting days, as there are two Sundays in the period when hunting is prohibited.

The State Game Commission today issued a statement on the small game season which closed last night. "The sportsmen of Pennsylvania have apparently established a new record for law observance," the statement said.

The number of violators has been considerably less than heretofore, it was stated, and this, with almost half a million license hunters and a more efficient field force than heretofore, to detect violations.

The small game season has been very successful, it was stated by the Commission, in a review as follows: Squirrels were very plentiful in most sections, although they drifted around a great deal in search of food. (Continued on page 11.)

VARIETY OF TOPICS DISCUSSED AT LAST ROTARY CLUB MEET

The meeting of the Clearfield Rotary Club, held at the Hotel Jordan Wednesday evening was presided over by Vice President Cal Johnston and Past President Albert Burt, in the absence of President Albert Stewart, who was out of town. Rev. O. B. Poulson, well known in Clearfield, who is conducting evangelistic services at the West Side Methodist tabernacle, was a guest at the meeting and delivered an interesting five minute talk, in which he urged the Rotary Club to devote their energies to getting behind the religious advancement of the town and community.

Randall Brubaker, Secretary of the Commercial Club, addressed the assembled Rotarians on the matter of a proper census for Clearfield. He said the U. S. Census Department is to make an official census of the town and ask $200, whereas the Park Director says people would do the work in connection with their regular directory canvass, for $200, and said the Commercial Club would like to have Rotary join with them in having the census taken. The matter was left with the committee on town affairs.

Mr. Brubaker also talked on the matter of Rotary assistance in the effort to place the advantages of the lakes to the Sun Highway properly before the people of the country, and also gave an interesting review of the meeting of the Clearfield delegation with the Inter-State Commerce Commission at Washington, D. C., recently, when the hearing of the New York Central's proposed "fifth track line" was held. Brubaker also reported he had found "all was well" with former Rotarian Jim Kerr, now seated in Washington.

The Christmas treat for the kiddies of Clearfield was discussed, the board of directors presenting a plan to finance the proposition, which was unanimously adopted.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

Possibly because of the Longfellow influence, which descended upon us in a highly impressionable time of life, the first thoughts conjured up in our minds at the mention of Thanksgiving were to do with Bibles, Stanzas, Phrases, John Alden and the rest, whereupon we conclude that the institution was born then and there.

When the ceremony was first celebrated in this country it was a direct perpetuation of the English "harvest home," and in its chief characteristic and significance differed very little from that observance. The latter in fact, is a world-wide custom.

"In-gathering" feasts, to which the people from several parishes, for example, Judges, IX, 27, presents the history.

And then went out into the fields and gathered their vineyards and trow the grapes, and made merry and went into the house of their God and did as they pleased.

So, as the records show, the Pilgrims had a special religious observance with their first Thanksgiving morning. They gathered in the morning and sang hymns and prayed and then they had been expected to perform the duty of labor, performed by the very few who had been able to do so, and by the ravages of disease, and by the need for planting corn that was actually needed for food, they were blessed with an ample harvest, and straightway invited the Indians to partake of their feast.

The great Chief Massasoit and about 90 of his men responded to the invitation. It appears, however, that the Pilgrim leader was materially augmented by the Indians, who sent out a number of their most expert hunters, who brought back five deer.

The ensuing feast was not for a day, but for a week. Nor did this mean that their sufferings were over. Followed another period of privation, during which the strictest conservation was necessary in order that there might be plenty of seed to plant the fields the following season.

Human nature is said to be the same the world over, and that the world does not change much from generation to generation is shown by an extract from an address made by Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes at a dinner given to President Angell, of Yale University, at Providence, R. I., on Oct. 9, 1923. In "taking account of the time" while handling a gentle jar to the pessimistic moral calamity howler, Secretary Hughes said: "The other day I came across this well-considered appraisal in which the distinguished jurist, Chancellor Kent, over ninety years ago passed judgment upon his own time."

"We live," said he, speaking in 1836, 'in a period of uncommon excitement. The spirit of the age is restless, presumptuous, and revolutionary. The rapidly increasing appetite for wealth, the inordinate taste for luxury which it engenders, the emulation which it creates, the growing contempt for slow and moderate gains, the ardent thirst for pleasure and amusement, the diminishing reverence for the wisdom of the past, the disregard of the lessons of experience, the authority of magistracy and the venerable institutions of ancestral policy, are so many bad symptoms of a diseased state of the public mind."

We're not worse than that even now, after the lapse of almost a century.

EADIE—HARRY

The West Side parsonage was again the scene of a quiet wedding on Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 28, 1923, when the pastor, William L. Armstrong, united in the bonds of holy matrimony, John Eadie, Jr., and Miss Rozella Harry. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rogers. The ring ceremony of the M. E. church was used. The happy couple left on the afternoon Pennsylvania train for distant points on a honeymoon trip. Upon their return, they will reside at 317 Merrill street. A happy, successful life is the best wish of their many friends.

The following ministers were present, all of whom took some part in the service: Rev. Nathan B. Smith, Rev. Abner C. Logan, and Rev. G. B. M. Reidell. The pastor, Rev. William L. Armstrong, who has lavished his energy upon this campaign and the building project at West Side, is connected to his name with a severe cold, but expects to be in the harness all day Sunday.

The program is a full one, the main feature of which will be the singing of "The Ninety and Nine" by ninety-nine men.

KREBS—BEAHAN

Two popular members of Clearfield's legion of fine young people were joined in the bonds of holy matrimony this morning at St. Francis Catholic church at nine o'clock. The principals were Miss Della Beahan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Beahan of Walnut street, and Henry L. Krebs, a long time resident of Clearfield, but formerly of Corning, N. Y.

Mr. Krebs is assistant yardmaster for the N. Y. C. here, in which responsible position he has attained a measure of success which guarantees a lifetime of usefulness and a home here.

Miss Beahan has long been identified with business offices, she being a capable stenographer, as well as possessing those charms which make for

The phrase "business is business," with its disagreeable suggestion that no considerations of honor or friendship or humanity have any place in business affairs, is said to have passed. It was a short, hard sentence, with nothing said for good or ill. It said a business man the other day, speaking to other business men, it appears, is bound up with a number of duties and responsibilities, and executives cannot be swayed by emotion.

A new phrasing of the fable might read, "Business is serious business to the public, business is fun to employees, business is good will between business men and those with whom they deal."

Secretary Mellon's proposal to cut income tax rates all the way down the line, with most of the saving going to small income people, has reconciled many to a cut in the higher income tax rates. It doesn't seem so bad to let the big fellows off easier when the little fellows stand to gain about seventy per cent of the benefit.

There are still those, however, who maintain as a matter of principle that the large incomes should have no reduction. As one Senator puts the argument, "The rich people who pay the taxes can afford to pay them."

To this one newspaper editor gives the rather obvious reply that probably they can afford it, but they do not have to. Tax returns show that, as matters stand, the rich are not paying the taxes, but putting their capital into untaxed investments. The higher their income tax rates has been reduced, the less they have brought into the federal treasury.

Nothing, therefore, is likely to be lost by reducing their rates along with the rates of the moderately well-to-do. In fact, it is not unreasonable to expect that lower surtaxes for the rich will bring in more money, and at the same time benefit business, because it will bring into productive and taxable use capital now invested in non-taxable bonds.

In many American cities, even some of the largest ones, it is nothing new or common now to see a rabbit hopping through a back yard or a squirrel scampering across a busy street. As for birds, they are present in growing numbers, and many varieties formerly rare attract special attention.

It is a strange situation to many of our old men, who remember how in their boyhood every sign of wild life was a thing to be hunted down and captured or killed. The boys of today, however, do not seem to consider it so glorious to rob a rabbit or bring down a mother bird with a sling shot or to shoot a squirrel to death. A wild rabbit, if small enough, may be a pest, but is likely to be set free again. Even the dogs are not likely to have undergone a change of heart. They may bark at a wild animal, but when some undomesticated creature appears, but it is not likely to try, as if the dogs doubted whether it was really a wild animal, to revert to their old hunting and killing instinct.

As a result of education, humane organizations have been teaching children, for years and years, to be more kind to all living things, and their spirit spreads. Naturalists have spread knowledge of many phases of wild life, making various birds and beasts and creeping things too interesting to be killed. The schools, aided by newspapers and magazines, have done their part well, adding to the ordinary fun of life for nature and a respect for all the lovely and harmless outdoor creatures unknown to any former civilization.

THE BASIS OF SAFETY

Beautiful buildings, strong vaults, marble and bronze equipment, do not make a bank safe.

In the last analysis, the strength of a bank lies in the men behind the bank.

The officers of the County National are careful business men who feel keenly their responsibility as guardians of the people's money.

Its directors are successful men in their own lines of business. They give to the conduct of the bank's affairs the same care and consideration that have made them leaders in their business.

This bank offers you the highest degree of safety.

HOW ABOUT THE BOSS?

By FLORENCE DAVIES

"It seems to me that you have a very superior class of men on this line," remarked a friendly traveler who was journeying by bus in a near-by city.

"Oh I damn," grinned the driver, "I guess the men ain't so extra, perhaps the boss may be a bit different, though."

With that the conversation ended. But it's been offering food for thought ever since. Perhaps the boss was a bit different, and that difference was felt all down the line, so that passengers, even to the little old lady who struggled with a heavy suitcase and received a friendly lift, felt the difference and had to speak of it.

Have you ever watched the children on your street? What a difference there is between them. Some who come from the best families are young terrorists, little hoodlums, in good clothes, and others who have had no better advantages, perhaps not as good, are quiet-voiced and gentle. What's the answer?

The boss is a bit different, as the bus driver said. And that doesn't mean that some parents are hoodlums and others are saints. By no means. But it does mean that there's been a difference in them.

The parents of the worst behaved children may try as hard and yearn as earnestly to make their children good, but they have lacked the judgment.

o, the point of force or the self-control to be the right kind of boss. It's about the same in business.

You don't have to be in an organization to know that there's a big difference in the bosses. The public knows that about every big institution with which it deals, though it doesn't always stop to figure out the difference.

Even a dry goods store has a personality. Think over the big stores you know. Some are slow and steady and plod along from year to year giving good values for money received but few spectacular bargains. Others are all hustle and drive and push but they don't give much more satisfaction in the long run than their quieter neighbors.

Some are all of science and courtesy, others all of hard work and antagonism and hard work. In nine cases out of ten, the difference is in the man at the top. It isn't the difference in the things, but the difference in the man who runs the thing. It happens to be the same in the spirit of the boss, the man at the top of the line, the head of the line, the man who makes itself felt down the line till it reaches the youngest and oldest boy.

So after the when you feel like thrashing the children in your school room or the girls in your department or the youngsters who call you mother, it might be just as well to stop and ask yourself, "How about the boss?"

BUILDING IS A PERMANENT THING

ONE builds, not for a day or a month, but for a long period of years. It is real economy, then, to make sure that only the very best of everything is used. Weak materials in just one spot may ruin the entire fabric.

In the business of building, it is ESPECIALLY true that "Real economy consists more in getting a real dollar's worth than in getting a lot for a dollar."

The coastal regions of New Guinea—practically the only parts known—are typical tropical lands and might be expected, are not particularly healthful. When a man of sixty gets into a reminiscence mood he can be forgiven for recalling the songs of his youth if he doesn't try to sing them, remarks the Somerville Journal.

Portage-La Proule is the French for prairie portage or carrying place, for it was near the site of the city that the old fur traders set out from the Assiniboine river to carry to or cross to Lake Manitoba. Early the French had a trading post there and it was doing a thriving business when French Canada was ceded to Great Britain in 1763.

BIG GAME SEASON

and were sometimes difficult to locate.

Rabbits were not so plentiful in some sections as had been anticipated. Upon investigation of reports in a number of instances we have found that the unsuccessful rabbit hunting reported is not always due to a scarcity of rabbits but due to the fact that they have been sitting very closely and not easily routed.

Ruffed grouse have been much scattered throughout the territory where they are usually found in numbers due to food conditions, and in some cases have been much more scarce than contemplated.

In a number of sections of the state sportsmen have enjoyed fairly good ring-neck pheasant and quail shooting this year. These birds have apparently done well, and the taxidermists throughout the state are receiving large numbers of cock ring pheasants for mounting. Some few hen were killed under the impression that they were still on the game bird list.

This year, the first for more than half a century, it will also be possible to hunt for elk in Pennsylvania. Since 1913 only two men have been killed in Pennsylvania, in mistake for deer, and if the sportsmen obey the present law there is no reason why there should be any fatalities at all during the big game season.

The first kill to be reported was from Crystal Springs Camp where Horace Regal brought down a fine seven point buck shortly after the hunters had taken to the hills.

And according to what can be learned from the mountains today Horace was mighty lucky at that as killings are few and far between. Those communications with Moose Leige's place fail to show any bucks swinging high in that happy hunting ground.

To enumerate the deer that were skinned on first of this morning would make almost a complete roster of the hunting camps of this part of the count.

Twin Oaks camp, a Big Run outfit, reports an eight point.

GIRLS HOLD THUGS

UNTIL POLICE COME

Philadelphia, Nov. 30.—Three girls who trapped two burglars by standing on a cellar door which the men beneath strove to pry open, are today receiving congratulations of the local police.

Leona Albert, 629 Bainbridge street, last night saw the men enter a neighbor's cellar. With two friends she stood on the cellar door until the men beneath gave up their efforts. Then, leaving the two girls still holding down the door, she ran to a telephone and called the police. The captured men gave their names as Cornelius Douglass, Jacksonville, Fla., and Fred Douglas, Baltimore.

George Long, a son of Os Long on the Penfield Pike, had the good luck to get sight of an albino deer early this morning and although he put fifteen pieces of lead in her result, the white haired old fellow is still going.

SALT

Salt is one of the cheapest foods, and yet very often the one thing that all dairymen or feeders of farm animals fail to find in sufficient quantities. Salt should be kept before the animals at all times, fed once daily or included in the grain ration to the extent of 1% of the grain mixture.

FALL OF ROCK KILLS
LAWRENCE H. COPELIN

While attending to his customary duties at the Jefferson Ridge slope mining operation, Philipsburg, Lawrence H. Copelin was killed Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 28th, when caught under a fall of rock. He was making an inspection of the operation and was in a room where the miners had been shooting the coal down. A mass of rock fell upon him without warning. When he was uncovered life was extinct. The accident happened about 4:30.

The slope, opened up a couple of years ago and located on the Derby branch in Decatur township, is operated by the Jefferson Ridge Coal Company, of which the unfortunate Mr. Copelin was a member and who held the position of general manager. He and his family reside near the operation, and it was a sad Thanksgiving Day in their home.

Copelin has been active in the mining industry and widely known in mining circles. He was industrious and energetic and his untimely death has saddened the community.

The funeral service will be held at his late home Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Clifford Bucy of the Church of Christ and Rev. Parkes, Free Methodist minister, will have charge.

LESSON FOR DECEMBER 2

THE POWER OF THE EARLY CHURCH

LESSON TEXT—Acts 2:1-4, 37-42.
GOLDEN TEXT—Whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved. Acts 2:21.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Peter Telling
About Jesus.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Three Thousand
Converted in One Day.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Great Service Preacher and a Great Revival.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—
The Source of Missionary Power.

The power of the early church was the Holy Spirit. This same Spirit has been the power of the church in all ages. The watchword of God's mightiest men throughout the centuries has been, "Not by might nor by power, but by my spirit with the Lord of hosts." (Zech. 4:6.) The mightiest forces in the world are spiritual.

1. The Coming of the Spirit (Acts 2:1-4).

1. Time Of (v. 1). It was on the day of Pentecost. "Day of Pentecost" means the feast which was held fifty days after the wave sheaf was offered (Lev. 23:16-18). It was observed by presenting two loaves made of the new wheat (Lev. 23:17). These loaves were baked with leaven, while leaven was excluded from the Passover feast (Lev. 23:6). The reason was that the Passover feast typified Christ's sacrifice, while Pentecost represented the church, composed of Jews and Gentiles—the two loaves. Christ had no sin in Him while the men and women composing the church have sin
in them.

The feast of Pentecost in a figurative sense still continues, for the body of Christ is not yet complete. Pentecost was a most fitting time for the coming of the Spirit.

2. Upon Whom the Spirit Came (v. 1, cf. 1:13-15).

The twelve and others to the number of 120. The coming of the Spirit was not merely for the twelve but for all believers—members of the body of Christ. They were in "one place, with one accord" waiting for the fulfillment of "Father's promise" (Luke 24:49). With a group of believers thus with eyes fixed upon Christ in expectation of the fulfillment of His promises, wonderful blessings are sure to come.
If the church would be with one accord in one place wonderful blessings would come still.

3. The Marks of the Spirit (vv. 2-4).

These marks were external and internal.
(1) External.
(a) The Sound of a Mighty Wind.
There was no wind—only the sound thereof. This suggests the all-pervasive life-giving influence of the Holy Spirit.
(b) Tongues of Flame. Each of the 120 was crowned with such a tongue.
The tongues show the practical purpose of the Spirit's gifts, and the fire indicates His purifying energy, purging the dross and making fit witnesses for Him.

(2) Internal.

This is seen in the transformation brought in the disciples. They have great courage and self-possession.
Peter, who a little while before was cowering before a Jewish mob, now with his brethren stood before the thousands of Jerusalem and a little later before the chief rulers of the city and declared that they had murdered their King.
3. The Converting Power of the Holy Spirit (Acts 2:37-42).

Many people were convicted of their sin—about three thousand repented and were baptized. This revival was real because:

1. They continued steadfast in the apostles' teaching. They did not grow cold or run after every fad that came along. This is the real test of conversion.
2. They continued in fellowship with the apostles. The surest way to grow is to keep in fellowship with Christians. Death is sure to follow the neglect of the fellowship of the brothers in Christ.
3. In using the means of grace. "In the breaking of bread," God has instituted ordinances in His house and those who are genuinely converted will avail themselves of their use.
4. In prayer. The apostolic church was a praying church. The Christian life cannot be lived without prayer.

Good Deeds.

The influence of a good deed is great upon the world, but the reflex influence upon the doer is a priceless thing.
—Gospel Banner.

False Prophets.

False prophets and teachers have ever been speakers of pleasing words and glorifiers of the conditions of their times. They only can they hope to secure popularity, ease, and the other things they are after.

Insufficient for That Day.

I have been driven many times to my knees by the overwhelming conviction that I had nowhere else to go. My own wisdom and that of all about me proved insufficient for that day.—
Lincoln.

for "Going to Chicago" was
"He will meet and need or speak to good quick neighbors. He will com-away feeling a little more charitably toward all the world, even toward those excessively foolish young men who regard Christianity as a soft performance."

FRANKLIN'S ABILITY TO START QUICKLY IN COLD WEATHER

"With the severe winter weather
not far off, the average motorist is naturally giving thought to the matter of getting his car started on one
of those snappy mornings when the temperature is hugging the zero
mark," says "Mac" McGinnis, local Franklin dealer. "Much has been
said about preventing gasoline after
the engine is running, but manufacturers of motor cars generally have devoted little attention to the far
more important consideration of preventing fuel before the engine starts
to turn over.

"Franklin engine's, however,
years ago saw the necessity of solving this problem and the electric primer, standard equipment on the
Franklin since 1917, is the answer.
The pressure of a finger on the tog-
gle switch on the dash sends an electric current through the primer coil
which becomes glowing red, and at
the same time opens a passageway
which leads to the cylinder. As the engine is cranked the gasoline passes
over the hot coil, changes to a vapor
state, is drawn into the cylinder
and is ignited readily.

"Easy cold weather starting on the Franklin is, moreover, facilitated by the use of a very efficient fuel injector, which converts all gasoline
into a vapor that ignites easily.
burns completely and is transformed
into power. In action prevents liquid
gasoline from getting into the cylinders, which, aside from being destructive to the motor, is a pure waste
of fuel."

"In addition to the electric primer
and the fuel transformer, the fact that the Franklin is an enclosed unit,
hence unaffected by the lowest temperatures, results in the Franklin
owner experiencing entire freedom
from cold weather worries. The best proof of the matter is that you will rarely, if ever, see a Franklin put on a "jolt" in the winter. Franklin drive their cars 365 days of the year.

FRANKLIN'S ABILITY TO START QUICKLY IN COLD WEATHER

"With the severe winter weather
not far off, the average motorist is
naturally giving thought to the matter of getting his car started on one
of those snappy mornings when the
temperature is hugging the zero
mark," says "Mac" McGinnis, local Franklin dealer. "Much has been
said about preventing gasoline after
the engine is running, but manufacturers of motor cars generally have
devoted little attention to the far
more important consideration of preventing fuel before the engine starts
to turn over.

"Franklin engine's, however,
years ago saw the necessity of solving this problem and the electric primer, standard equipment on the
Franklin since 1917, is the answer.
The pressure of a finger on the tog-
gle switch on the dash sends an electric current through the primer coil
which becomes glowing red, and at
the same time opens a passageway
which leads to the cylinder. As the engine is cranked the gasoline passes
over the hot coil, changes to a vapor
state, is drawn into the cylinder
and is ignited readily.

"Easy cold weather starting on the Franklin is, moreover, facilitated by
the use of a very efficient fuel in-
jector, which converts all gasoline
into a vapor that ignites easily.
burns completely and is transformed
into power. In action prevents liquid
gasoline from getting into the cy-
linders, which, aside from being destructive to the motor, is a pure waste
of fuel."

"In addition to the electric primer
and the fuel transformer, the fact
that the Franklin is an enclosed unit,
hence unaffected by the lowest temperatures, results in the Franklin
owner experiencing entire freedom
from cold weather worries. The best proof of the matter is that you will
rarely, if ever, see a Franklin put on
a "jolt" in the winter. Franklin
drive their cars 365 days of the year.

"Would Have Choked Baby Boy to Death Had I Known He Would Be Gunman"

Says Mother of Morris Diamond, Killer of New York Bank Messengers

BY STEVE HANNAGAN

NEA Service Staff Writer.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., December 1.—"I'd have choked him to death then had I ever thought he would grow up to be a gunman," wailed Mrs. Dora Diamond as she pointed to a baby picture of her son, Morris Barlow Diamond, taken when he was three months old.

Morris, 27, and his brother Joseph, 21, are in jail charged with murder in connection with the shooting to death of two bank messengers and escaping with $43,000.

Six other suspects have been taken by the police who expect to round up a big gang.

Mrs. Diamond sobbed hysterically, beating her head with her closed fists, her black hair streaked with silver, turning prayer with grief as one looked on.

"They were both such fine boys," she sobbed. "Never a night passed but Morris would come and tuck the covers around me as I lay in bed. And how Joseph used to smother me with his kisses! Those boys couldn't have taken another man's life."

Solemnly, with perfect intonation she unraveled incidents of their childhood, climaxing them in a picture of her sons behind prison bars. Then she broke down.

"Where is my daddy?" innocently asks five-year-old David, motherless son of Morris.

But none will tell him the truth.

David is a bright little chap with blue eyes and blonde hair. He was well-mannered and noiseless as he played with his toys.

"Morris was just like that when he was his age," said David's grandmother. "He was a replica of his father—only an image, a sweet boy like that, growing to be a killer."

There are four sisters in the Diamond family. Two of them are strikingly pretty.

"Three of us had to resign our positions as soon as our brothers were arrested—and Jane had to stop attending school," said Sally, the eldest.

"Yes, but my firm wrote and told me they did not believe my brothers guilty and to come back," broke in Elizabeth.

"People are so cruel," commented Jane, 16, and popular in high school.

Leona, always sickly, has been confined to her bed since the spark of joy has been replaced with shadows of gloom in the Diamond household in rapidly growing Bensonhurst, 45 minutes from Broadway.

"Only one month ago I borrowed $1500 from the West End Bank," said Mrs. Diamond.

Messengers of this bank, just a stone's throw from the Diamond home, were those robbed and killed.

"For 17 years we have lived here—and now we are disgraced, talked about and curiously gazed upon—and all for something I know my boys couldn't have done," said Mrs. Diamond.

She is 52 years old and has been a widow and head of her family for two years.

Morris, handsome and athletic, was a football star in high school.

Cups and trophies Morris won as a fancy ballroom dancer adorn the mantle in the comfortably furnished and happy home until misfortune wrought havoc.

"A man who has any knowledge of a murder, or is suspected of it in New York, has two paths to follow. He can take his chance with the electric chair—or—'suave', be called 'a rat' and be murdered when he is set free. It's death in any case," mused Morris, the eldest of the brothers.

"But I think I'd rather have little Davey grow up to know that his dad was murdered by a revengeful gangster's gun than to have him learn that I was electrocuted."

Joseph, tall, dark and 21, was silent.

On Wednesday morning a young man named Conway of Surveyor, ran his Overland car just out of Paul Shire's garage heading into the N. Y. C. passenger engine that was just pulling into the station. The young man evidently did not see or hear the train, although it whistled for the crossing and the car struck the engine between the two drivers and was turned around and one wheel broken and otherwise damaged causing it to have to be returned to the garage. The driver was uninjured but badly frightened.

The heavy rains of Thursday night has no doubt made the roads to the mountains in bad condition. Those hunters who went out on Thursday were fortunate. There has been an almost steady stream of autos and trucks also wagons, hauling hunters and this equipment through our town the last few days.

Annie Laurie.

This famous song was written by Annie Laurie's lover, William Douglas of England, Scotland, about the year 1703. She was the daughter of Sir Robert Laurie of Maxwellton, Dumfriesshire, first baronet of Maxwellton. Douglas' courtship was unsuccessful for in the year 1709 Annie Laurie married a Mr. Ferguson of Craigdale. The tune of the song was composed by Lady John Scott.

Sharks Vary in Savagery.

The savagery of sharks varies oddly in different seas. On the Atlantic coast of Florida bathing is perfectly safe, yet on the gulf coast it is dangerous in the extreme. The worst sharks are those found off Tampico, in Mexico.

WHERE DID YOU GET THIS? WHAT ARE THOSE THINGS ON THERE? WHAT ARE THEY?
I PAINTED THAT FOR YOU, IT'S A DISH OF APPLES—HOW DO THEY LOOK?

IT'S A VERY PRETTY PICTURE, DORIS, BUT JUDGING FROM THE COLOR OF THE APPLES I WOULD SAY THAT THEY WERE ROTTEN.

STYLES AND SMILES GALORE AT DRIGGS THEATRE TUESDAY

When "Styles and Smiles of 1924" comes to the Driggs theatre Tuesday, December 4th, few will realize that they are witnessing the performance of the youngest producer of musical revues in America. This young man, who is still on the sunny side of thirty, is known from the Atlantic to the Pacific, as he has been featured with many of the leading musicals and has been a headliner over the time vaudeville circuits for a number of years. This season he has written the dialogue and music as well as produced in its entirety this wonderful big revue, to further prove his versatility he not only plays the leading comedy roll but, during the performance renders a violin solo that proves him to be a virtuoso on this difficult instrument.

With no age to handicap him, this young man carries the show through its two acts and many scenes with his clownish antics and from the time he opens his mouth to utter his first line until the final curtain there is never a dull moment while Charlie Abot is on the stage. Some of his song numbers in "Styles and Smiles of 1924" will live long after the show is forgotten and will be whistled on the street of every city after the company has departed.

Such musical gems as "The Little Town That I Call Home," "Learn to Strut," "My Old Fashioned Girl" and "Shufflein' Shoes" are melodious numbers that are not soon forgotten. As patient in the dentist shop, and as personal guard to Cleopatra, Charlie Abot has ample opportunity to exploit his original wit and laugh provoking hesitancy of speech in a manner that never fails to make him the star of a big company of travesty artists that comprise the cast of "Styles and Smiles of 1924." The engagement here at the Driggs Theatre will be for one performance.

Explaining Twilight.
Twilight is made possible by the earth's atmosphere and its power to reflect the sun's rays. For a certain time after the sun has disappeared below the horizon the sun's rays pass through the earth's atmosphere at such an angle that the light rays are reflected and refracted.
